Kathryn Lynn Davis, Suzan Tisdale's other editor at Glenfinnan who write a heroine with a british father, Chinese mother but has blue eyes

Just in the free excerpt on amazon, there are references to Chinese women being demure submissive, LITERALLY keeping their eyes lowered to the ground and they run into a couple from her past from China, and they're the ones who are intolerant and awful to her, not the "white" characters and we have slanted almond eyes she's described as "tall and lithe with the thick black hair and bronzed skin of the chinese" and calling China a "beautiful and violent civilization" this came out in 2014 btw not that that makes this ok
